

Dederick Foss Killed
Sunday by Car Near Marlborough Village

Syracuse University Student,
Returning to School, Hits 70-
year-old Man About 6:30 o'clock South of Village.

HEAVY TRAFFIC

Coroner Leston DuBois Makes Investigation Following Auto-
topsy—Accidental Death.

The death of Dederick Foss, 70 years old, of Marlborough, killed Sunday night by a motor car as he walked along the highway about a half mile south of Marlborough, brings Ulster county's death list from motor vehicles to 30 since the first of the year. Foss was struck and instantly killed about 6:30 o'clock by a northbound car driven by Harry Axelrode, 21, of 640 Haverhill street, Lawrence, Mass., a Syracuse University student who was returning to school. Foss suffered a fracture of the skull. The operator of the car was not held.

According to the investigation made by Corporal Mahoney of the State Troopers, the Axelrode car was proceeding north in the direction of Marlborough and Mr. Foss was walking south on the easterly shoulder of the road facing traffic. With Axelrode was Fred Demski, of 263 West Seventy-second street, New York city, also a Syracuse student. The driver of the car told Corporal Mahoney of the B. C. I. that he had been unable to see the man on the highway until it was too late to avoid an accident.

Considerable Traffic

At the time there was considerable traffic and cars passing south may have momentarily blinded the driver of the car causing him to lose sight of the pedestrian for the moment. Corporal Mahoney said there was no evidence of criminal negligence on the part of the driver of the car.

The accident happened on a straightway just over the brow of a slight hill.

Coroner Leston D. DuBois of New Paltz was summoned and made an investigation and ordered an autopsy. Following the autopsy performed by Dr. J. S. Taylor of Kingston and Dr. A. S. Ferguson of Marlborough, Coroner DuBois gave his verdict as accidental death. The remains were taken to the Tullish Funeral Parlors at Marlborough.

Investigation of the accident was also made by Sergeant E. J. Hulbe and Trooper Lynn Baker of the Highland outpost as well as by Corporal Mahoney of the B. C. I. Mr. Foss had been about the village for the past few years and was employed for a time by W. Wardwell of Marlborough. Whether he had any immediate relatives was not known and efforts are being made to learn of any survivors.

Chief Murphy Aids
In Fighting Fire to Save Sister's Body

While his sister lay in state in a first floor room of the burning wing of St. Joseph's Hospital in Yonkers Thursday evening, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy of Kingston pitched in and helped the Yonkers fire department fight to quell the fire, says the Herald Statesman of Yonkers on Friday. The story continued stating that Chief Murphy had gone for dinner after visiting the hospital where his sister, Sister Rose Leary, had died after an illness of three weeks. After the fire the Yonkers officials thanked Chief Murphy for his aid and expressed their sympathy for his loss. Among those who offered their condolences were Mayor Loehr, Chiefs Rully, Mulcahey and Siler, Commissioner Morrissey, Police Chief Quirk and Sergeant O'Connor.

REPORTS COLLISION, PEARL STREET AT CLINTON AVENUE

Mrs. Edna L. Kennedy, a teacher in the Cottrell school, who lives at 20 Furnace street, reported to the Police Department that her Oldsmobile coach had been struck and badly damaged by a car driven by Patrick Clark of Woodland. The accident happened about 8 o'clock Friday night at the intersection of Clinton avenue and Pearl street. Mrs. Kennedy was driving north along Clinton avenue at the time. In addition to the damage to her car Mrs. Kennedy sustained a severe sprain of the left wrist, although an X-ray examination did not disclose any broken bones.

Shanghai, Oct. 11 (AP)—Under a weak sun, Chinese and Japanese troops crawled out of their muddy burrows today along the 25-mile front to the northwest and resumed the almost two month old battle for Shanghai.

The smouldering ruins of the China Merchants Navigation Company's lower wharf and warehouses directly opposite the Bund on the Pootung side of the Whangpoo river were the only results of the Japanese warships' pre-dawn bombardment of the rich industrial area.

A Japanese naval spokesman announced the Chinese peppered the Japanese warships with machine guns from the wharf and the Japanese retaliated with their big guns.

The property loss was estimated $2,000,000, including considerable American and other foreign cargo. The bombardment of Pootung began in a pouring rain during the final hours of Sunday, upsetting an otherwise quiet day.

Today, the Japanese struggled through the muck for a mile adrift along Yangping creek, straightening out their salient between the stubbornly Chinese-held Kiangwan race course and Woosung creek north of the international settlement.

Sunk in Quagmire

Throughout Sunday, China's famous "double tenth"—the tenth day of the tenth month—anniversary of the outbreak of the 1911 revolution that made China a republic, the battle lines stretching northwest from Shanghai to the Yangtze river were sunk in quagmires of gumbo-like mud that made military movements seemingly impossible.

The Japanese naval spokesman asserted that as a result of yesterday's bombing raid on the Canton area China's airforce in South China had been completely wiped out.

The exodus from Tsinanfu, the capital of Shantung, increased today as many American missionaries departed from Tsinanfu to the eastern seaboard. Skeleton staffs were left at Tsinanfu to attempt to protect their properties.

General Han Fu-chu, governor of Shantung whom the Japanese claimed to have won over, came out flatly today for the Nanjing government. He issued a proclamation at Tsinanfu urging all government employees to vow resistance to the death against Japan.

Forty Americans, mostly missionaries and teachers, remained at Tsinanfu, while some 44 other

4 Hurt When Car And Bus Meet Near Tillson 4 Corners

One passenger was brought to the Kingston Hospital for treatment and three others were less seriously injured Saturday night when a passenger car and a Greyhound bus were in collision a half mile south of the four corners at Tillson. The driver of the bus, Edward J. Tillson, 57, of Kingston, was proceeding toward Tillson when a car operated by Alfred Otto, 57, of Tillson, pulled on the road from a gas station. The two vehicles came together and four of the passengers in the bus sustained injuries.

Mrs. Frieda Faller, 54, of 61 West 85th street, New York, suffered injuries to her back and was brought to the Kingston Hospital by the W. N. Conner Ambulance Service. The others who were less seriously injured were Mary H. Ferris, of 1221 Washington street, Hoboken, N. J., who has several teeth loosened, Jennie Dorsey of Palenville, who suffered injuries of a slight nature about the knee, and Sarah Connolly of Slightborough, who was cut about the mouth.

The driver of the bus, Arthur D. LeVies, of 160 Wadsworth avenue, New York, claimed that he was proceeding toward Kingston when the car pulled in front of his bus from a gas station a short distance from the Pittsford farm. Corporal Baker and Trooper Klein, together with Deputy Sheriff Vredenburg and McCullough, made an investigation of the accident and Otto was placed under arrest on a charge of operating a car without a license and arraigned before Justice of the Peace Brodsky of Rosendale, who imposed a $25 fine.

Important Cases.

Details of the cases involving administration laws: The National Labor Relations Board appealed in an attempt to conduct a hearing under the Wagner Act on a complaint that the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, Ltd., had engaged in unfair labor practices at its Fore River, Mass., plant. The first Circuit Court of Appeals enjoined the government from holding the hearing.

The Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company in another case sought to prevent the Labor Board from holding a hearing to determine whether the shipbuilding concern had engaged in unfair labor practices in connection with the dismissal of employees. The Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals refused to enjoin the hearing.

Charles Martin of Greencastle, Ind., sought damages under the 1933 securities act from two directors of the Continental Distillers and Importers Corporation. He contended they could be held responsible for statements filed with the securities commission which they signed.

The litigation was against Harry E. Hull, former commissioner of immigration, and Marion Butler, former senator from North Carolina, both of whom now live here. They won in the Court of Appeals here. Martin contended he had bought stock under false representations. The legislation requires filing of information with the securities commission concerning stocks to be issued.

Members of Mercantile Exchange, the Chicago Board of Trade, and the Kansas City Board of Trade filed three cases attacking constitutionality of the 1936 act broadening federal regulation of commodity exchanges. All three challenges failed in the lower courts. The legislation brought rice, cotton, milk, butter, eggs and Irish potatoes within the regulatory provisions.

The Georgia Power Company sought to proceed with litigation attacking the Tennessee Valley Authority in the Eastern Tennessee Federal District Court after losing in the Northern Georgia Federal District Court. It was trying to prevent the TVA from expanding its activities in Georgia. The Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals barred the company from proceeding in Tennessee.

In one of two gold cases, the government appealed from a decision by the Fourth Circuit Court that it could not avoid payment of interest on a $1,000 8 1/2 per cent First Liberty Bond held by Arthur Machen of Baltimore, which was called for redemption in advance of the maturity date. Similar litigation filed by Robert A. Taft of Cincinnati, son of the former President, is awaiting argument.

The other gold petition involved an attempt by John Ogden of Indianapolis to compel the treasury to redeem in gold his fourth Liberty Bonds.

The government has barred payment of obligations in gold. In the famous "gold clause" decisions, the Supreme Court held this could be done as to private obligations but the government could not abrogate payment of its own debts in that medium if it was specified. It held, however, the litigant could not collect because no damage had been proved.

"WASP" PLANES FOR ARMY WIN APPROVAL

Success of Craft in Spain Convinces Officials.

San Diego, Calif.—Spain is a fiery laboratory in which modern military tactics—especially as regards aircraft—are being tested.

Army air corps officers stationed here have revealed that one of the first lessons learned from the Spanish revolution is the extreme value of pursuit planes.

"In the United States many strategists have been inclined for the last few years to discount the value of the pursuit type of fighting plane," one officer of the One Hundred Fifty-fourth observation squadron, who refused to permit his name to be used, told the United Press. "But the pursuit planes definitely have come into their own in Spain."

Reports on Air Strategy.

Officers stationed here said for months the War department has been compiling confidential reports evaluating certain types of strategy used by both insurgents and loyalists.

Among the findings based on those reports were said to be several of a startling nature insofar as aircraft is concerned.

It was said the Spanish war also has given military officials a chance to observe the performance of fighting aircraft designed and built by the great powers of the world, and to compare the efficiency of design, armament and speed with similar American craft.

The tiny, darting pursuit planes have demonstrated, in the Spanish civil war, time and time again, it was said, their ability to overcome the heavier, but potent bombing craft.

Carrying small sized bombs and machine guns the little ships are able to perform deceptive maneuvers around the more cumbersome "flying fortresses" and evade the heavier armament while disabling the larger craft with sprays of machine-gun fire and the small bombs.

Then, too, it was pointed out, the pursuit planes are particularly valuable in harassing concentrations of troops on the machine-gun fire.

Army Orders Fast Ships.

Army officers here said the lessons of the Spanish war already are being put to use in this country, with the army having placed orders for what were described here as the "fastest pursuit planes in the world."

Eighty-five of these little fighters already are under construction at the Soversky Aircraft corporation in the East, it was said.

Then, too, the army, according to officers here, has developed what is known in military circles as the XF-1M. This plane, the officers say, is capable of "overhauling any air target thus far constructed."

This new XF-1M carries a crew of five men. It is operated by pusher rather than tractor propellers—a decided innovation in modern fighting planes. This plane, the top speed of which is a secret, is capable of fighting at an altitude of 30,000 feet or more. At least five, and possibly more, heavy-caliber machine-guns are mounted on this craft, it is said.

Doctor Fails to Save Unrecognized Daughter

A girl, badly disfigured in an auto accident, was taken to an Elkins, W. Va., hospital. Dr. C. H. Hall, not recognizing her, worked desperately to save her life, but it was in vain. Later, Dr. Hall was told that the girl was his daughter, Eloise Hall, a radio singer. This unusual photo shows the doctor after being "notified" of his daughter's death.

Former Treasury Secretary Dies

was singled out for special instruction and duty in staff work.

After the war Will Hays, then Republican national chairman, drafted him in 1920 as chairman of the important committee on policies and platform and made him also a member of the committee on resolutions. That autumn Mills was elected to Congress and in his first year in the national house was appointed to the influential committee on ways and means.

He served three terms in Congress piling up substantial majorities in a New York district that was closely divided. He gave up his seat to run for governor of New York in the 1926 election, but was defeated by Al Smith whose huge New York city vote overcame the majorities which Mills won "up-state."

Drafted by Treasury Department

Shortly before the expiration of his third term in Congress in 1927, he was appointed under secretary of the treasury, winning the confidence and approval of Andrew Mellon, then secretary. In February, 1932, when Mellon retired, Mills was named to succeed him in the Hoover cabinet, serving until the inauguration of President Franklin D. Roosevelt on March 4, 1933.

Mills was an uncompromising foe of the New Deal, seeing it as an "attempt to turn our individualistic society into a collective one." He kept up the fight through both terms of the Roosevelt administration and in 1936 was mentioned as a potential candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

Mills came of colonial stock. His father was Ogden Mills, a banker, philanthropist and turfman, and his mother was Ruth T. Livingston of an old New York family. Mills was born August 23, 1884, at the family's summer home in Newport, R. I.

In September, 1911, he married Miss Margaret Stuyvesant Rutherford, daughter of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Sr., by the latter's second marriage to Lewis Morris Rutherford. This union ended in a Paris divorce in 1920, the ex-Mrs. Mills later marrying Sir Paul Dukes, English publicist.

Mills was married again in September, 1924, to Mrs. Dorothy Randolph Fell, daughter of Philip S. P. Randolph, of Philadelphia. He had no children.

Musician Runs A Nursery—Soothes Kids With Saxophone

By The AP Feature Service
FORT WAYNE, Ind.—When Thomas Gore, professional musician, found he couldn't keep the wolf away from the door with his saxophone and clarinet, he decided to start a nursery.

The idea clicked. He and his wife now have a house full of children, some of them boarding permanently, others there only for the day. But Gore hasn't gotten away from music entirely. He plays for the kids and finds it keeps them quiet.

Working Girl Is Best as Wife, Cornell Discovers

Ithaca, N. Y.—To assure a successful marriage, marry a girl who has worked before becoming a bride, Cornell university's department of rural social organization advises potential husbands.

Girls who, before marriage, were active in community affairs, or who were responsible housekeepers in their own homes, are also "good bets."

"The poorest bet of all," according to the department, "is the girl who, after finishing school, stays at home with no responsibility either in a home, or on a job, or in a community."

Future husbands were also discussed by the department. Husbands with a record of regular employment and a lively interest in their jobs are one and one-half times more likely to have a well-adjusted marriage.

The more balanced the government, the better balanced the budget.

NEW TRAFFIC CODE

The series of articles on the new traffic code in the city by Lieutenant Phinney and Simpson, which are appearing in The Freeman, in an effort to familiarize local residents with local traffic regulations should be read by pedestrians as well as drivers of motor vehicles.

Most people do not violate traffic laws consciously and vic-tiously but rather through ignorance of the law. This move to explain what the regulations are and how they should be observed
should be a great help to law abiding citizens. All local motorists could not pass an examination on traffic laws and regulations here.

Many local motorists complain
when they are stopped by an officer that they never heard of the regulation at issue. A perusal of the articles appearing in The Freeman will help both police officers and motorists.

COLUMBUS DAY

Four hundred and forty-five years ago this month Columbus discovered America, according to the geographers. American patriotism feel that he did a good work thereby. Youngsters think it was an easy stunt. Columbus didn't realize what he had done.
As a matter of fact, he had failed in his main purpose. He hadn't sailed around the world to prove its spherical shape. He hadn't reached the Indies. He thought Cuba was Japan, but after exploring the island he realized that it was not. He didn't know how close he was to a new continent.
He figured that Cuba was a projection of Asia. Ten years later he was still hunting for an easy route to the real East. He suffered royal displeasure and undeserved disgrace and punishment.
So far as is known, he did not set foot on any part of the mainland that is now the United States of America.

None of these facts minimize his achievement, or the courage
with which he kept disheartened sailors heading into the unknown horizon on his first great voyage.
The earth is round, as he believed, and the New World to which he led the way proved to be more important than a westerly route from Europe to the Orient. Columbus started a procession of explorers and settlers who finally did "discover" America. The discovery might have been postponed for many years
without his early dreams and efforts. It seems fair enough that he should be honored by us on October 12.

PRESSURE ON JAPAN

The United States government is now officially committed to one side in the undeclared war across the Pacific. It condemns Japanese aggression and upholds China.
This action doubtless reflects popular American opinion and is in harmony with the bulk of world
opinion, as represented at Geneva.

Now what can we do, or what will we do, to make this moral intervention effective? The American people will not sanction war against Japan, even to remedy such an obvious injustice and safeguard our own rights. Yet if our arraignment of Japan at the bar of world justice is to be anything more than a pious gesture, ending in futility and a new outbreak of international lawlessness,
there will have to be some kind of action by us and by other nations.

Action will doubtless be asked of Congress, when it meets in a few weeks. That action presumably will continue our military neutrality but abolish economic neutrality. That is, we may join other nations—the Nine-power
group that signed the Pacific treaty in 1922, or the world-wide

group that signed the Kellogg Briand peace treaty in 1928—in a boycott of Japanese goods.
There may be also an embargo on the shipment of war materials to Japan, and a broadening of the neutrality law to permit shipment of war materials to China. Other peaceful powers may do likewise.
An American boycott on Japanese goods would be mainly a boycott on silk, which makes 55 per cent of Japan's exports to this country. That would be a simple thing, though our silk mills would suffer until they could change to other materials. A similar boycott by Great Britain, against various products, would be very effective. If many nations joined, Japan would probably be forced to stop fighting in a few months, because her economic life, as well as her military action, is so greatly dependent on importing raw materials and exporting finished products. The question is, do Americans want to do this, assuming the risks of violent reprisals from Japan while the pressure is applied?

DRIVING WHILE DRUNK

New York State's Motor Vehicle Bureau announces an increase of 36 per cent in convictions for drunken driving for the first six months of the year. There were 31 deaths resulting from 417
accidents involving intoxicated drivers. Licenses of 2,285 intoxicated drivers were revoked.

No lethal weapon ever invented
by man is more potentially deadly than a mixture of alcohol and gasoline. There is no excuse for a driver taking the wheel of his car in an intoxicated condition.
If drunken driving is to be curtailed there must be adequate laws, which impose fines, jail
terms and license revocation, coupled with aggressive police and prosecution work.

Another revelation by a retiring state license examiner is that men as a whole are better drivers than women, although the fair sex shows less inclination to recklessness than the males.

Two's Company

The Characters
Nina, a nice girl with hazel
hair, Honey, Nina's gay, plump, youthful mother, has brought home a new husband.
Richard, Nina's stepfather, chauffeur, poised, dark-haired,
well-tailored and Honey's junior
by 10 years.
David, a young auto salesman,
met Nina at party he crashed.
He has copper hair and an engaging manner.
Cordelia, Nina's closest friend.

Chapter Seven Chasing Button

CORDELIA said: "We'll talk about my party at lunch, because that culture, Bridget, will be hovering around for bits of gossip. But afterwards, you've got to give me the real low-down on Honey and her new sizzle."
So over their melon and their stuffed eggs and broccoli, they had discussed the "Evening on Montmartre" Nina had told her more about the funny young man with the copper-colored hair, and what he had turned out to be; but later, upstairs in the library, they had gone straight for the business of the day.

"Now then, Nina, tell me all about this Richard Challenger, the Man of the Hour."
"I don't know a thing, Cordelia.
Not a thing, except that he's not more than 35 or 6, and frightfully good-looking."
She described him, and was surprised to notice how well she remembered every little thing about him: the way his sleek dark hair
grew in points over his temples;
the nice way he used his hands—
lighting a cigarette—pouring drinks; the way he carried himself with an almost military stiffness
... turning from the waist....
Her friend made a significant whistling sound through her lips.
"I should say you knew quite a lot about him," she remarked.

"Oh, but not the important things. When they began to compose the notice for the papers, I thought: 'Here's where little Nina gets some data.' ... but you saw all that there was. Born in England.
Member of several good clubs in different cities. Served with the Seaford Highlanders during the war. There he is in a nutshell."
"And a hard nut to crack, if you ask me. ... Business?"
"None that I know of."
"Um-m. What is known as 'private means,' I guess. ... Married before?"
Nina shook her head. "I don't think so. ... I don't really know, for sure."

Playing Dog Catcher

"AND now tell me about Honey.
Are you happy about this?"
for her, Nina?"
"Well, I may be a bit premature,
but I think I caught glimpses of an entirely different person yesterday. More ... more down to funda-mentals, if you get what I mean."

Cordelia was very understanding about things.
She said: "I think I know, darling."
A few days later, as Nina was coming out of the Colony restaurant, early in the afternoon, something large and spotted dashed round the corner of 63rd street, collided with her and very nearly knocked her over.
The girl with whom she had been lunching, Betty Halliday, stepped her, and then looked perfectly dumbfounded as Nina cried:
"Button!" and dashed after the hound puppy.
At the sound of his name, he stopped, abruptly, and glanced over his shoulder. A long rope—it looked like part of a wash line—dangled after him, rakishly, and his brown eyes said: "Catch me

was built in 1725 by Conrad Elmendorf, son of Grietzel Elmendorf, widow of Jacob Elmendorf, who came into possession of the tract of land on February 20, 1683, by a deed of conveyance
from the trustees of the corporation of Kingston. This information was gleaned from records held in the county clerk's office.
During the Revolutionary War
the tavern was conducted by Conrad Elmendorf, Jr., and later passed to his heirs, the Low or Low family, who held possession until 1825. During the war, the tavern served as a meeting place for the Council of Safety and the last meeting of that body was held there on October 15, the day before the burning of Kingston by the British, with Colonel Pierre

That Body of Hours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

BODY NEEDS WATER

One of the valuable lessons our surgeons have learned during the last few years is the great need of water in the system in keeping the body cells in good condition and the body processes working properly.

In former days, before operation, the patient was purged with Epsom salts which not only cleaned the bowel but took a large amount of water from the tissues and from the blood. Then, during operation more water was lost by evaporation of the perspiration from the skin and from loss of blood.

In the Journal of Urology, Dr.
R. M. Nesbit, Ann Arbor, Mich., records a study of a series of patients undergoing a variety of surgical operations to determine the loss of fluid during operation and immediately afterwards. The average loss of fluid by evaporation from the skin was about one and a half pints, and the average total loss including blood, urine, vomiting and the evaporation together was 1 quart. This is a great loss of fluid from the body
at a critical time and Dr. Nesbit believes that the patient should be transferred immediately to a bed warmed with hot water bottles rather than put under hot blankets which cause further perspiration and loss of fluids.

Considering available water for the surgical patient, it must be remembered that the usual quart or three pints of water in the daily meals will not be available to the patient as he may not be on a "full" diet until some days
after the operation.

Patients who enter hospital in a dehydrated (not enough water in their tissues) condition present an additional problem in water balance. Water balance studies on normal individuals showed that signs of serious dehydration were produced when the water loss was equal to about 6 per cent of the body weight. This loss should be restored by drinking more water or eating foods containing a great amount of liquids—milk, soups,
fruits.

Today patients entering hospitals in a dehydrated condition are often kept for two or three days before operation is performed so that more water can enter the system, and after operation water is injected under the skin or into the blood vessels.

Everybody, except overweights, should see that they get plenty of fluids every day.

Sundown Stories

The Dark Night

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"I DON'T know whether you were around once, Chubby, when we all said that we would never keep sad thoughts or worries to ourselves, but would talk them over with each other." Willy Nilly now said. "You see you worried about things which really didn't even exist."
"I see now," said Chubby. "I was very, very foolish."

"We must get started," said Willy Nilly. "It will be dark long before we get home, but they'll be waiting for us."

Chubby's little cub heart was beating with happiness. He was going home, home, home to dear Puddle Muddle with its ruts, its bumps, its crooked roads, and hills, its dear Puddle Muddlers.
And they were waiting for him
and they loved him.

Honey Bear, Rip, the dog, and Chubby got into the automobile
Two-Ways with the little man, Willy Nilly. They drove and they drove and they drove. It was dark now but the bright lights on the car made the road ahead of them bright. Suddenly the road was absolutely dark.

"My lights have gone out," said
Willy Nilly.

"I hate to keep them waiting in Puddle Muddle," he said, "but it is dangerous to drive through the night without any lights. I wonder what I'd better do."

Then he heard the voice of Christopher Columbus Crow.
"Christopher," he shouted. "Fly back to Puddle Muddle. Tell them it is too dark for us to travel now but we're all safe and we'll be back in the morning. Now no one will worry," ended the relieved little man.

Tomorrow—"Happy Camping."

The United States is estimated to have coal enough in the ground to last 4,000 years.

School Borrows $10,000 Fund

Highland, Oct. 9.—From the fact that sufficient school taxes would not be received in time for the October pay roll the trustees at the regular meeting held last week voted to borrow the sum of $10,000 from the First National Bank, and issue a certificate of indebtedness by the district payable on or before the first of November. This motion was made by Andrew W. Lent and seconded by P. T. Schantz.

The president, Mrs. Rose reported the road at Ellings Corner school had been repaired and the grounds committee had found the Goudy lot in a suitable condition for the ball games and said the boys were practicing on the athletic field. This brought on a discussion as to the finishing of the bleachers and play ground.

Two applications for the position of English teacher were presented and referred to the principal. Having received from Washington the conditions regarding the PWA loan, Mr. Lent was appealed to in the unraveling of the terms, and after making notations reported at a special meeting held Tuesday evening.

A communication was read from Monroe Tuesdale quoting prices on recharging of fire extinguishers. The clerk was commissioned to write him to execute the job and read an itemized bill. There had been a request for a change in the Hawley's corners bus route, but it was voted to continue as at present. The clerk was asked to give the thanks of the board to Mr. Goudy for the offer of his field for the ball game, and to ask Mr. Schwartz to put into writing his wishes regarding the instruments used for the orchestra. There was a request for a room to be used for the N. Y. U. extension course as well as for the tuning of three pianos.

The present janitors, Edward Tubbs and Harry Thompson, were re-engaged for another year at their present salaries. Tubbs receives $100 and Thompson $90 per month. Janitors in the outside schools will be engaged by the trustees who have the supervision over them.

The clerk, Thomas Hopper, was asked to write to the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Co., inquiring for the cost of lights at the rear and sides of the school building. The trustees were all present with the exception of C. I. Richards. Mrs. Jennie D. Rose presided.

HEM AND AMY

EXTRA CAREFUL

By Frank H. Beck.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

Most of us like to feel that our jobs are permanent. Sam had been carpenter at a provincial theatre for about half a century, and the proprietors thought it was time he retired on a pension. But Sam chose to consider himself insulted by the well-meant offer.

"I wouldn't 'ave took the job at all," he grumbled, "if I hadn't thought it was goin' to be permanent."

The Revival That Failed

It was a warm night, under a brush arbor high in the Ozark hills, and the picturesque old Arkansas evangelist was collecting his Bible, prayer book, hymn book and a chamola filled with an unusually large number of small coins from the good hill folk. But as I approached, I saw that he looked sad and dejected.

"You've had a wonderful night," I said.

"It's been terrible," he answered, "a bitter, bitter disappointment!"

"Do you mean to tell me," I demanded, "that four converts, and one of them, Shad Shallocks, the local gambler, are a disappointment to a revivalist?"

"No, no. I'm happy to have saved four souls. I wasn't thinking of that. Guess I expected more—more response, that's all."

"I thought the congregation responded beautifully," I told him.

"Their congregation helped me a hell lot," he said, giving me a look of compassion. "But they shore didn't put their hearts into it. Their hosannas didn't ring out like they ought. The bull meetin' lacked that there thunderin' triumph I allus strive for. Hit was terrible. Just terrible. I shore must be er gettin' old, er somethin'."

"That's absurd," I smiled.

"How were the collections?"

"Awful," he growled, stuffing a twist of tobacco into his lean jaw. "Awful. They couldn't er been worse. Oh, I guess those yer hill folks give me such an' as generously as they could—still, I should er got more. I worked for it. I expected it, but she didn't come."

"I don't see why," I ventured.

"When Shad Shallocks got up and started down the aisle, the folks were so surprised you could have heard a pin drop."

"That's just what I war a workin' fer," he glared at me. "That's when I war a puttin' my hull soul into the service. I war a sweatin' blood ter bring that fellow up to the altar."

"And you did," I cried with feeling. "The congregation set up a glorious shout, too, when he gave up that pair of dice and threw these playing cards down on the organ. You saved him."

"Saved him nothin'," the old revivalist interrupted me fiercely. "Ef Shad had er been really saved, he would er give up that seventy dollars what he won off'n me down at that fire house last night! That war what I war a workin' fer!"

Speaking of thrift, please hand a bouquet to the neighbor who switches on the light to read the scripture, then turns it off for family prayers.

One of these hyar politicians come one day to Tufftown. He bellers for quite a spell, and the folks began gettin' fidgety. Finally he rears back and starts all over again.

"My friends," he shouts. "Name one!" yells Tolliver, suddenly waking up.

Money talks in the case here given.

The Hollywood magnate told an assistant that in his opinion a certain writer was the only man for a film he had under consideration. The assistant was tactfully doubtful. "Don't you think, perhaps, he's a bit too caustic?" he suggested.

"I don't care how much he costs," demanded the producer. "Get him."

The Bible tells us there is a time to speak and a time to keep silent. The trouble with most of us is that we don't know when to do either.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS AND SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Those who won't be happy until they decide who's best in "Stage Door"—meaning K. Hepburn or G. Rogers—had better stay away. Likewise, those who insist on literal screen translations of stage hits. But they'll be the losers in entertainment if they do stay away. The new Gregory LaCava-directed film belongs on even the most conservative of "must" lists.

Humorous, dramatic, tragic, satirical, "Stage Door" is a large slice of theatrical boarding house life. Girls from everywhere register there and pursue their nearly hopeless job of crashing the theater. It is futile but inevitable, this life, as long as stage-struck girls continue to grow up and come to the city.

College Girl Shines

"Stage Door" takes up, specifically, the story of Terry Randall (Miss Hepburn), who is undisciplined, but on the other hand, a victim of footlights fever in that she is wealthy. Her father, to "cure" her, angelic play on condition that she be started. Innocent of the plot, Terry is rehearsing woodenly and terribly, and Tony Powell (Adolphe Menjou) as the producer is in despair. Opening night Kay Hamilton (Andrea Leeds), a little actress who might have had the part but for Terry Randall, commits suicide.

The real irony of the incident was that this young woman had no intentions of being away at all. It just happened. On impulse, she stepped around the corner to a circulating library. She was only gone a minute. But, as you know, a minute so often can mean an eternity.

IT IS a fairly easy task to gauge the art mood in New York. One merely has to stroll by the galleries to see which way the wind is blowing. For a time it was clipper ships, with whole galleries given over to white bosomed racers of the sea.

Then portraiture had its vogue—hard, severe old gentlemen sitting in tall straight-back oak chairs, and fragile old ladies peeping furtively out from under sun-bonnets.

Now landscapes seem to be the thing. At least the canvases in most of the Fifth Avenue windows indicate as much. There are ponds with water lilies, and white fields knee-deep in tangled flowers, and mountain ranges tinted with the faint rays of October suns.

Tomorrow it will be something else, hunting prints perhaps, or maybe scrambled eggs. No one can tell till tomorrow gets here.

Cacti Native of Americas

With one exception, all of the cacti of the world are native to the Americas. From here they have been transported to the far corners of the earth, and are every much at home in Africa, the island of Mauritius, and even in Ceylon, according to a writer in the Los Angeles Times. In Australia and other sections of the globe they grow in profusion, until many a traveler has been tricked into thinking of them as indigenous to those countries. Yet it is in the southwestern portion of the United States, Lower California and old Mexico and some sections of South America that they are found growing in their native state most abundantly.

Some species of cacti, like the tuna, are edible, while others are deadly poison; a few contain juices which are intoxicant and some bring on insanity. The Apuntias Nopales bear fruit which is commonly called prickly pear. The products of certain species of Echinocereus are called alochoceros by the Mexicans and strawberry cacti by Americans—due to the fine flavor of the juicy pulp.

The New York, Chicago and Los Angeles public libraries all circulate more than 10,000,000 books a year.

Newlyweds Back Love With a Budget

A marriage that's going to be happy. The groom carries the bride over the threshold for luck—and they've already worked out their budget plan.

"We're going to get what we want," say these radiant newlyweds. "We won't let leaks or unexpected bills drain our money and our hopes with it."

Does that sound like a lot of pinching and bookkeeping to you? Budgeting is simple. Suppose you want not only a nice home, but a car, furniture, and electrical equipment, too.

Then begin your budget by limiting payments, insurance and upkeep on your home to 25 per cent of your income. If you're tempted to skip that upkeep while your home's new, don't. Sudden repair bills can upset your plans for years.

Food for two—good food—needn't cost more than 16 per cent of your income. The trick is to buy not the small "two-isms" packages and cans but the large ones, for they're cheaper per pound. With modern refrigeration you can keep food for days. And John won't remember when you serve him a delicious corn pudding on Thursday—that you served him half corn, scalloped, on Monday. A roast, too, which may seem high, lasts for many meals, costs little per meal.

As for clothes, build up a fund, about 10 per cent of your income. Buy between seasons.

So here you are! With essentials cared for and a good surplus left for operating and personal expenses—and the things you want most. Let our 40-page booklet, HOW TO BUDGET YOUR INCOME, tell you how it's done, give you a plan easy to follow.

Send 15c for our booklet, HOW TO BUDGET YOUR INCOME, to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Institute, 109 West 19th Street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Catskill Man, 100,

Says Rest Up To God

Catskill, N. Y., Oct. 11 (AP)—John Leonard Driscoll reached the hundred mark today, and decided that he'd leave "the rest to God."

"I've learned as I grew older to leave a good deal to God," said the new centenarian as he reviewed the years and prepared to celebrate his 100th birthday anniversary.

Born in Piermont-on-the-Hudson, October 11, 1837, Mr. Driscoll's memory goes back to the time when every village along the Hudson river had a market sloop.

"In fact," he said as he compared the old days to the modern world, "all carrying was done then by boat or stage coach."

Later, when the locomotive came up the Hudson, Driscoll became chief engineer of the Catskill Railroad, a memento of which will help color his birthday.

Friends planned to present him with an inscribed bell once used on the road, which first ran with pine logs as fuel. The oldest member of Catskill Lodge, 468, F. and A. M., Driscoll claims to hold the record for Masonic membership in New York state. He proudly displays a gold medal given him three years ago in tribute to his 70 years in the order.

The Russian chapel at Fort Ross, Calif., is a unique remnant of the meager Russian colonization in North America south of Alaska. Fort Ross was established by Russian colonists who came from Alaska in 1812.

ARE YOU ONLY A THREE-QUARTER WIFE?

THERE are certain things a woman has to put up with and be a good sport.

Men, because they are men, can never understand a three-quarter wife—a wife who is all love and kindness three weeks in a month and a hell at the rest of the time. No matter how loudly your nerves scream—don't take it out on your husband.

For three generations one woman has told another how to "smiling thru it" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three criticals of life. 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife. Get LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By CLAUDE S. JACOB

New York, Oct. 11 (AP)—Stock market leaders suffered a wide break in today's market, with U. S. Steel and many others losing 1 to 5 points and landing in new low territory for the year or longer.

Contributing to the slide was another slump in commodities with wheat at Chicago dropping 5 cents a bushel, the limit permitted in a day's dealings.

Weakness of securities in London, Amsterdam and Paris was seen as a depressing influence. In addition some commitments were said to have been shelved pending the President's "fire-side chat" tomorrow evening. Tuesday's Columbus Day holiday also inspired an assortment of buyers to seek refuge on the side-lines.

Bonds tripped up along with stocks. The share list dipped at the start, came back momentarily, then sank again with selling gaining momentum near the fourth hour. The pace slowed later and around the final period extreme losses were cut down in the majority of cases. Transfers were at the rate of about 1,400,000 shares.

Others inclined to give ground included Bethlehem, Crucible, Republic, Wheeling Steel, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, General Motors, Chrysler, Sears, Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Deere, Amal, Kennecott, International Nickel, National Lead, J. I. Case, American Can, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, Standard Oil of N. J., Shell Union, Continental Oil, Santa Fe, N. Y. Some Optimism in The Steel Business

In light trading Saturday, industrialists showed a small loss on the Dow-Jones averages, while rails and securities gained slightly. For the week stocks lost what ground they had gained the previous week and under the low points of September 24 and 25. Commodities were off and both securities and commodities reflected the uncertainty regarding the future, both in this country and abroad.

The unexpected statement of attitude by the administration on the Far Eastern situation and the apparent certainty that there will be a special session of Congress this fall, with further tinkering with the economic situation, certainly did nothing to help the forward march of business. Just what will be their ultimate effect remains to be seen.

There appears some optimism in the steel business, despite the sharp and unexpected reduction in the rate of mill operations the past week. Operations in the Pittsburgh area this week are scheduled to start at 62 per cent of capacity, a decline from last week's rate of 64 per cent, but the smallest drop in several weeks. The incoming business from the automobile industry, remains at present the one bright spot in the industry. That is increasing, but is still far from what would be considered normal for this time of year. The steel companies have felt the effect of reduced buying on the part of railroads, net earnings of the carriers having been seriously depleted by wage increases and higher cost of fuel and supplies. Unless the roads are helped by higher freight rates and fares it is unlikely that they will be able to order as much steel material and equipment in 1938 as they did in 1937.

A freight carloading for the week ended October 2 made a new peak for the recovery period and business as a whole still shows a gain over last year. Barron's index placing the gain at four to five per cent over the same period in 1936.

The Ford Co. announces an expansion program which rivals that of 1934-35 and which it is stated will mean the expenditure of some $40,000,000 at the Rouge plant, greatly increasing the company's steel making and power facilities.

A new 1,000 ton blast furnace, to be added to the two furnaces now in production, will be the first all-weather blast furnace in the world. Chrysler announces an average increase of about $100 in the price of its 1938 line of cars.

Department store sales were up more than seasonally in September to the level of 95 on the adjusted index of the Federal Reserve. This compares with an index figure of 88 in September last year and is the highest, with the exception of February this year, since June, 1931. Some administration officials are predicting a holiday season business bigger than any yet seen, although others say that such predictions are premature.

Granted Decree
Annie Edwards of Kingston has been granted an interlocutory decree of divorce against her husband, Charles D. Edwards. The defendant put in no answer. The action was tried in Supreme Court before Justice Harry E. Schirck and the plaintiff alleged that her husband had committed acts of adultery on March 13, 1937, at 59 Hasbrouck avenue, Kingston. The marriage took place at Morgantown, W. Va., on September 6, 1917, but plaintiff and her husband have not resided together, according to the testimony, since 1930. Cashin and Ewig appeared for the plaintiff. By the order of the court the plaintiff is prohibited except upon express order of the court.

No Chinese Comment
Pending official notification of Italy's attitude both toward Japan and China, Chinese officials of Nanking today declined comment on Tokyo dispatches saying the Italian ambassadors to Tokyo had assured Japan of Italy's wholehearted support in her action against China.

It was learned reliably, however, that the uncertain attitude displayed by the Italian press during the last few weeks on Italy's position had prompted the Chinese government to contact Rome for an official clarification of Italy's position.

Donald Arnault, of Bound Brook, Conn., arrived at Chengtu, Szechwan Province, to begin a year's study at West China Union University. He traveled by way of Canton and Hankow despite continued Japanese bombing of that route.

West China was reported more and more to be throwing its resources behind the Nanking government. Szechwan, immemorially known as an isolated, virtually empire of mid-Asia, uninterested in national and international affairs, was said to be marshalling money, men and war materials as an integral part of the central government's war machine.

Dispatches from Changsha, Hunan Province, to local newspapers, said General Li Tsung-jen, former enemy of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and now commander of the powerful Kwangsi provincial army in South China, was en route by plane to Nanking to pledge his support to Chiang.

Gen. Li was said to have declared 3,000,000 well-trained citizens of Kwangsi were ready to fight for China while 200,000 armed troops were prepared to leave at a moment's notice to reinforce other Chinese units at Shanghai and in North China; another million were held in reserve.

Close "picked up a hitchhiker who shot him to death, seized his car and fled to the southwest. Along the route, he apparently fell in with Padgett, who was slain in the same fashion near Kingston City."

Close's body was found by two hunters whose dog dashed up to them with a human bone in its mouth. Investigating they found the body. Identification was made by Close's parents and his dentist.

GOLF CLUB DIRECTORS TO ELECT OFFICERS

The Board of Directors of the Wiltwyck Golf Club are to meet at the court house tonight at 8 o'clock for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year.

Thrilling Finish in Golf Sees Bailey Win over Tongue

The long awaited match of the early fall finals was played on the Wiltwyck Golf course Saturday afternoon between J. Watson Bailey, former Ulster County Champion, and Edward Tongue, the two golfers who have been playing such superb golf in their various matches leading up to the finals. Followed by a large gallery, the match between Bailey and Tongue proved to be a thriller and the result of the contest remained in doubt until the very last putt on the 18th green. All even off the 17th green, Bailey and Tongue each had long drives off the 18th tee. Bailey's second shot reached the green while Tongue topped his second shot and reached the green in three. Bailey holed in two putts, as did Tongue. Had it not been for Tongue's poor second shot the match would have been all even at the 18th and another 18 would have been played.

On Sunday the Wiltwyck golfers entertained the Windham golfers. The matches started in a light rain, but later the sky cleared and all matches were finished. The ladies of Wiltwyck Golf Club served a dinner to the visiting players and the Wiltwyck players. The match was won by Wiltwyck.

Next Sunday the Wiltwyck men will play a return match with the Rip Van Winkle Club of Palenville on the Wiltwyck course. The Wiltwyck men were successful at Palenville in their recent match and hope to carry off the honors next Sunday.

The officers of Wiltwyck Golf Club are planning a very attractive winter season. It is planned to keep the club house open all winter. The club house will be heated and Frank Shimok, pro, will be in charge of the winter sports program under the supervision of the directors of the club.

A toboggan run has been laid out, ski trails will be posted, ski hills will be prepared and skating will be enjoyed by the members.

New Financial Aid Policy by WPA

Albany, Oct. 11.—(Special)—A new policy on financial aid for projects in construction, reconstruction, repair or extension of sanitary sewers has been instituted by the Works Progress Administration, according to information received today by the Division of Sanitation of the State Health Department.

Financial funds will not be allotted for such projects unless the sewage from the municipality is treated in a sewage disposal plant or unless plans have been submitted for such a plant and reasonable assurance given that it will be constructed within a reasonable period of time.

"It will now be necessary for the governing body of a municipality which has no sewage treatment plant to submit satisfactory plans for sewage disposal to the State Health Department, authorizing the construction of the plant within a reasonable period of time," C. A. Holmquist, director of the division, said today.

"This change in WPA procedure, which became effective September 22, is consistent with an established policy of the State Department of Health requiring the construction of sewage treatment works in connection with all new sewerage systems, and also in connection with the treatment of sewage from existing systems, particularly in places where the sewage creates a menace to health or a public nuisance."

PREVIEWED

Today

Broadway: "The Prisoner of Zenda." Anthony Hope's immortal romantic story of adventure and sacrifice against the backdrop of royalty returns to the screen once again with the dashing and handsome Ronald Colman starred. There is no story that could possess such motion picture appeal as this tale of intrigue for it possesses a pretty if frustrated romance, a wild scheme of revenge by one of fiction's most lovable but crafty rascals plus adventure, humor and bravery in big and effective doses. And the show has been created with rich and elaborate backgrounds, fine direction, splendid camera effects and well worded dialogue. It tells the story of a drunken and slipping king who retains his throne when an adventurer appears who is a dead likeness to the king. Ali unknown, this man plays a lone game against the trickery of the king's court and saves the throne for the woman he loves out cannot have. Madeline Carroll and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., are featured in a cast of hundreds. A four star adventure hit, well worth seeing.

Kingston: "100 Men and a Girl." Bright with melody, comedy and charm, the latest starring vehicle of little Deanna Durbin is a trite but effective little story set to sentiment and music with a supporting cast of unusual talent. There is little doubting the ability of Miss Durbin's voice and she is at her best in the scenes where she can flood the theatre with song. Her supporting cast includes such notables as Leopold Stokowski, Adolphe Menjou, Misha Auer and Alice Brady. Here is melodrama and entertainment of real worth plus some of the funniest comedy antics ever filmed. A don't miss attraction, recommended to everyone.

Orpheum: "Melody for Two" and "Two Who Dared." Songs and love are done with a glamour seldom seen in real life in the best of the Orpheum features with James Melton singing and Patricia Ellis assisting in an ornamental capacity. "Two Who Dared" is pretty grim melodrama with Anna Sten and Henry Wilcoxon.

Tomorrow

Broadway: Same.

Kingston: "Prairie Thunder" and "Dark Journey." With guns barking and fists flying, Dick Foran returns to the Kingston screen in a wild and desperate western that teems with action, bravery and romanticism. Mr. Foran, the singing cowboy, was never in such terrific difficulties as he is in this story of the plains but he ends up by capturing the villain and winning the girl. Ellen Clancy, Wilfred Lucas and Frank Orth are featured. "Dark Journey" is the other attraction with Conrad Veidt.

Orpheum: S.M.C.

Music was furnished by John Hanaford's Orchestra who played the class song and other special numbers.

Mrs. Frank Black was appointed recording secretary of the Ulster County W. C. T. U. when the annual election was made of officers at the convention conducted at the Port Ewen Methodist Church recently.

Mrs. Nelson Hedges entertained the members of the Missionary Society, of the New Hurley Reformed Church, at her home, Thursday afternoon.
